

LUANA

Dance Workshop:

WHAT MAKES THAT BLACK?

August 3-5
TU Dance Studios
2121 University Ave,
St. Paul

Luana, dancer, teacher, scholar, and former St. Paul resident of the Rondo Neighborhood, will be our summer D.E.C. workshop presenter. At the beautiful TU Dance studios in St. Paul, Luana is excited to return to her roots both literally and scholarly as she launches her new book "What Makes That Black?"

A workshop that takes dancers through the African Aesthetic physically (African, Jazz, and Modern) and makes clear the tenets of the Aesthetics that are rooted in Black culture, Luana comes home.

Join us as we learn and deconstruct: "What Makes That Black?"

On the eve of the building of the Rondo bridge in St. Paul's Rondo neighborhood, it's fitting that Luana should be our choice as her mother Evelyn Fairbanks is the author of the acclaimed book "Days of Rondo".

(Bring movement clothes and a notebook!)
